1. It is reported that new buildings have been erected at the motorized artillery barracks in Eger. The additions consist of two-story living quarters for enlisted men, 15 x 40 meters in size, and six one-story buildings, 8 x 40 meters, for garages and magazines.
2. Two new groups of barracks have been built between Gyöngyösoroszi and Gyöngyössolymos. One group joins up with the wooden army barracks already existing on the northwestern edge of Gyöngyössolymos. Hungarian infantry are stationed here. The other group is on the southeastern edge of Gyöngyösoroszi. Each group comprises several two-story enlisted men's quarters with garages and depots. The building was done by the Műtravidéki State architectural engineering concern.
3. The Hajduszoboszló airfield, which was used by Hungarian gliders until the summer of 1951, has been considerably enlarged and expanded into a large sports airfield. There are two hangars and a barracks at the field. An aviation training unit and a parachute fighter training unit are stationed here. The flyers occupy the barracks at the airfield, and the parachutists the Hungarian barracks in the town. There are 56 training planes at the field, of which 50 are Soviet UT machines which the Hungarians call "Fecske." There are also three Czechoslovakian "Praha-Sekel" and three Hungarian "Levente" machines there.
4. At Sátoraljaújhely there is a Hungarian barracks in Sárospataki Street in which an infantry battalion from Miskolc is stationed. There is a smaller barracks on Erzsébet Street occupied by an AVH border-guard troop, with a strength of about 850 men.
5. A Hungarian engineer battalion is quartered in the barracks at Sárospatak. It has a camp and place for water practice at Bodrogolaszi. The battalion has been stationed here ever since it was activated.
